

High frequency words used by young students in Australia

The New Oxford Wordlist Research Report has just been released and includes lists of words most frequently written by students in Australia in their first three years of schooling. The words that are written at a high frequency unique to each of the three year levels are displayed below.

